

Dowsing for disasters

A note from Ced Jackson (August 2016)

Reflecting on the tragedy in central Italy, it occurred to me that dowsing - as part of an overall relief effort - might be able to make a contribution.

I have therefore established a rudimentary Facebook page entitled Dowsing for Disasters, which could provide a forum on this subject.

Topics could include:

The potential use of map dowsing to locate the living and the dead

The potential role of distant dowsing

The application of the skill, by those who possess it, of distant vision/remote viewing

It would be very important not to falsely raise hopes, or make claims which could not be substantiated, and also to work through appropriate agencies.

All dowsers of goodwill are invited to contribute.

If you are interested, go to Facebook and search for Dowsing for Disasters or go direct to www.facebook.com/groups/1575613716067224/

Your ideas are welcomed.

Ced Jackson

www.Ced.Jackson.org

(This note was despatched to representatives of BSD-affiliated local groups, as listed in Dowsing Today.)