

The Big Berry Wave

Richard Sears (July 2016)

Last week both Devon Dowzers and Tamar Dowzers attended the first Open Day held by the newly formed “Friends of Berry” group (FOB) in Huntshaw Woods near Torrington in North Devon.

In amongst the programme of guided tours of the Iron Age hill fort, enactment demo’s and other activities at 1pm we were all asked, both visitors and exhibitors alike, to line the perimeter mound for the “Big Berry Wave”

Click on the link below to see the result from Skyz Ink’s drone organised FOB and count us dowzers (the ones with their rods in their hands!) and also at about 1 min 48 sec into the video you should see some of the roundhouses we marked out.
